

Another option that can be useful is to choose the course entry point. If you never use announcements, and always want students to go to assignments first, for example, you can set that entry point here. Use caution with this option. If you do choose to create an announcement later in the semester, students may not be able to see it.

To modify a course entry point:

1. Enter the course shell by clicking on the Course Name on your Blackboard Home Page and click Control Panel.
2. In the Course Options area (bottom left column) click on the Settings link.

3. On the next screen click Course Entry Point.

4. Click the drop-down arrow to see a list of choices for an entry point and choose the new option.
NOTE: The default entry point is Announcements. If you change the entry point away from that area and submit an announcement, students may not see it.
5. Click submit at the bottom of the page and OK on the next screen.
