Allida Black is a research professor of history and international affairs at The George Washington University and founding editor of The Eleanor Roosevelt Papers, a project designed to preserve, teach and apply Eleanor Roosevelt’s writings and discussions of human rights and democratic politics.

An author of numerous books on Eleanor Roosevelt, Dr. Black also is the managing director of the Allenswood Group, a collaborative founded to empower individuals and strengthen democracy through education. She also is a Senior Fellow at the Women’s Research and Education Institute.

She is recognized at home and around the world for her efforts to help teachers and civil leaders incorporate human rights practices in their classrooms and civic life.

The Dr. Harold Abel Endowed Lecture Series in the Study of Dictatorship, Democracy and Genocide

Presented by
Allida Black

Wednesday, April 1st
7:00 p.m.
Central Michigan University
Park Library Auditorium

Reception to follow in the Clarke Historical Library.

Open to the public.
chsbs.cmich.edu/abel

Can a Declaration Combat Genocide?

The Dr. Harold Abel Endowed Lecture Series in the Study of Dictatorship, Democracy and Genocide brings to campus distinguished scholars to discuss the impact of worldwide genocide and historical events such as the Holocaust and mass murders in Africa, Southeast Asia, and Central America. The series was established by the Abel Family in 2009 to honor and memorialize Dr. Abel’s career as an educator, which included a 10-year term as president of Central Michigan University from 1975 to 1985. Dr. Abel passed away in 2002.