Anthropology is the study of people through time and space. You’ll study archaeology, cultural anthropology, linguistic anthropology, physical anthropology and applied anthropology. You’ll gain hands-on experience that will set you apart when searching for a career.
Program highlights
Fieldwork and research opportunities with experienced faculty
Study abroad and international research experiences
Courses include language and culture, medical anthropology, primate behavior, international cultures, forensic anthropology, and laboratory in physical anthropology

Career options
As an anthropology graduate, you’ll find career opportunities with museums, federal agencies, and local and international organizations. You’ll be well equipped to provide consulting services including historical research, forensic work for police agencies and assessment of health care services for cultural groups.

» Anthropologist/Archaeologist
» Consultant
» Cultural Resource Management
» Historian
» Museum Archivist/Curator
» Professor

For information
Department of Sociology, Anthropology and Social Work
Anspach Hall 142
Central Michigan University
Mount Pleasant, MI 48859
989-774-3160
www.chsbs.cmich.edu/sasw