This course is designed for students to research and write an original paper on some aspect of popular sport and its relationship to dominant themes in U.S. history. Students should aim to use sport as a lens to examine issues like race, identity, nationalism, socio-economic class, technology/media, and gender/masculinity.