African American History, 1877 - Present

HST 325 explores the social, political, and cultural dimensions of African American history from 1877 to the present. Emphasis will be placed on the development of racial segregation in the American South, the Great Migration and Harlem Renaissance, race and the New Deal, African Americans and World War II, the modern civil rights movement, and the rise of Black Power. In addition to the textbook history, students will analyze and discuss numerous primary sources, including the words of Booker T. Washington, W.E.B. Du Bois, Martin Luther King, Jr., Muhammad Ali, and Malcolm X.
