

HST 496/723 SEMINAR IN AMERICAN HISTORY

REBELS AGAINST WAR: THE AMERICAN PEACE MOVEMENT

HST 496/723 SEMINAR IN AMERICAN DIPLOMATIC HISTORY

From the founding of their nation, Americans have often thought of themselves as a people uniquely dedicated to peace, but their history is consistently marked by wars and violence. This course looks at those citizens who challenged U.S. foreign policies that threatened or committed the nation to war, evaluating their motives, organization, tactics, and impact on American diplomacy. Students will research and write a significant research paper as their major project.

Spring 2016 | Wednesday 6:30-9:20pm | Powers 135
Professor Mitchell Hall

