Teaching

Presently teach Assessment of Cognitive Abilities and Assessment of Personality, core courses in the APA-Accredited Clinical Psychology doctoral program at Central Michigan University, and Abnormal Psychology, Applications of Research Methods, and Introduction to Clinical Psychology at the undergraduate level. At University of Mississippi, I taught the above graduate courses, a required doctoral course in Multivariate Statistics, and an in-house practicum in psychological assessment (see "Clinical" below). Have also taught at various times undergraduate courses in: Psychological Testing and Experimental Psychology.

Clinical

2002-present: Director of the CMU Psychological Assessment Clinic, a training and research specialty clinic under the umbrella of the CMU Psychological Training and Consultation Clinic. The Psychology Assessment Clinic is staffed by advanced clinical psychology doctoral students whom I supervised in the delivery of assessment services to university students and residents in surrounding communities.

1993-2001: Director of the University of Mississippi Psychological Assessment Clinic, a self-supporting and revenue-generating training and research specialty clinic affiliated with the Department of Psychology at the University of Mississippi. I staffed the Psychology Assessment Clinic with advanced clinical psychology doctoral students whom I supervised in the delivery of assessment services to university students and residents in surrounding communities.
