Creating Environments that Engage, Inspire and Retain STEM Students is a daylong educational forum about active learning. The conference will feature several experts on topics such as how to transform traditional courses to active learning courses and how to utilize active learning spaces.

There will also be open discussions about active learning pedagogy and presentations on subjects related to active learning during the afternoon poster session.