many students were caught off guard by the changes and we received many emails from distressed students who did not understanding the impact of the loan cap. The issues appear to have resolved and we are awaiting the outcome of the lawsuit.

Please describe any steps your program has taken or is considering in response to the federal student loan caps? If your program has not been taken any steps, put N/A in the box.
(Responses will be used only in aggregate to identify trends, better understand the experiences of CACREP-accredited programs, and inform future policy and advocacy efforts).

the program created altered program plans that would meet the caps and provided ongoing communication to students. We adjusted the internship course to meet student loan eligibility as full time despite number of credits enrolled which take effect next year.

If your program has been affected by reductions or withdrawals of federal research funding, what steps, if any, has your program taken in response? If your program has not been affected, put N/A in the box.
