A Call to Action:
Strategic Plan for Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, Justice, and Belonging at Central Michigan University
2023 – 2028

PHASE THREE: 2025-2026
Introduction

Sapientia, Virtus, Amicitia — wisdom, virtue, and friendship are the words that have graced our seal since 1892. From the time of its founding, Central Michigan University has sought to provide quality, in-depth educational opportunities to those that would otherwise lack access. Embedded within the ideals of wisdom, virtue, and friendship, CMU opened its doors to diverse communities since its inception. Today, we aim to expand upon past diversity, equity, inclusion, justice, and belonging (DEIJB) efforts to truly meet the nuanced needs of our students, alumni, partners, and community. Given contemporary sociopolitical contexts across the globe, it is imperative that we remain proactive in upholding our responsibility to actualize social justice and belonging as an institution of higher education. Through the work of countless institutional partners and students, this plan provides specific strategies for successfully advancing our commitment to cultivating a rich, inclusive learning environment that prioritizes belonging and social action.

At Central Michigan University, diversity is the ability to demonstrate representation of an array of identities, backgrounds, perspectives, and talents. Diversity work seeks to lessen homogeneity to strengthen communities, environments, and ecosystems. Diversity offers choice, options, and more equitable representation across curricula, teaching, policy, and practice. It also nurtures innovation, creativity, and a richness of experience. In turn, equity is a mindfulness towards ensuring that the opportunities and resources made readily available to all, are also cultivated and shared in a manner that takes context, nuance, and specificity into account.

Inclusion is the act of operationalizing diversity to ensure communities, departments, and units provide equitable opportunities for engagement to a diverse population. Diversity offers a seat at the table; inclusion ensures everyone at the table feels heard and valued. On college campuses, inclusion can emerge in the form of financial equity (e.g., opportunities for financial aid, grant funding for minoritized scholars, properly financing diversity initiatives), social diversity (e.g., relationships/mentorships built across identity, clubs and organizations providing open-access membership, affinity groups for faculty, staff, and students, sustained dialogue initiatives), curricular diversity (e.g., inclusion of critical methodologies, the use of intentional dialogue techniques, studies led by researchers of diverse backgrounds, course readings curated with purpose, the use of universal design in the classroom), and structural diversity (e.g., audio/visual accessibility, spiritual space, room décor, intentional displays in the library, gender inclusive restrooms, space for nursing caretakers, and accessible offerings that are compliant with the Americans with Disabilities Act [ADA]).

Justice seeks to remedy inequities which stem from systemic oppression and other social issues. From policy implementation to procedural reviews, justice targets bias, discrimination, and stratifications with intentionality and offers corrective action. It involves reflexivity, interrogation, and a willingness to invest in holistic improvements. At CMU, justice is diversity, equity, and inclusion put into practice.
Belonging makes considerations for how individuals experience day-to-day interactions with campus and the surrounding community, paying specific attention to those who are most vulnerable within the community. These considerations disrupt policy, practice, and procedures that target or exclude populations, and offers multifaceted support which takes a diverse range of needs into account. We strive for a campus culture where everyone is welcomed and appreciated. We endeavor to achieve these goals through the cultivation of more inclusive practice, curricula, teaching, programs, and policies to ensure a sense of security and belonging throughout campus.

Finally, for the purposes of this document, use of the term minority considers continued experiences with marginalization and oppression, even in instances where a historically underserved community reaches a numerical majority (Chase, Dowd, Bordoloi Pazich, & Bensimon, 2014).

Active engagement in DEIJB allows CMU to nurture a holistic learning environment, rich with different experiences, ideas, and modalities for involvement. Pluralistic learning and research generate a stronger appreciation for difference and fosters the open exchange of ideas and inspiration, as well as new access points for collaboration. The full implementation of diversity, equity, inclusion, justice, and belonging at CMU would demonstrate a commitment to social change by affording traditionally underserved populations with a quality education, preparing all students to serve as global citizens, improving the statistical underrepresentation of minoritized folx in critical fields of study, and utilizing cutting-edge research to address societal needs.
