The Central Michigan University Interfraternity Council (IFC), Collegiate Panhellenic Council (CPC), and the National Panhellenic Council (NPHC) exists to promote the highest ideals of brotherhood/sisterhood, service, philanthropy, leadership, and scholarship among its member organizations. While the majority of our members strive to better themselves and our community by prioritizing safety and upholding our standards, there have been chapters that have not lived up to these expectations, and have been held accountable for their choices.

On October 9, 2018, Central Michigan University announced the removal of Phi Sigma Phi as a registered student organization citing significant safety concerns.

IFC, CPC, and NPHC stand with Central Michigan University on this decision and will continue to work with the university on reflecting and identifying how we can ensure the safety and wellbeing of our community and student body as a whole.

Through our new provisional member program, which is made possible with partnerships both on-campus and off-campus, our whole community will have vast training and education on these difficult topics during their time in Greek Life.
