KEYNOTE ADDRESS

Rigor, relevance and excellence

Presented by President Robert O. Davies • Location: UC Rotunda

It was once said that the “central challenge for leadership is that mediocrity is survivable.” While that may have been true in the past, in the rapidly changing world of higher education, it is not the case today. We must commit ourselves to excellence and constant innovation if we wish to remain relevant in this new, hypercompetitive environment. In this session, we’ll discuss ways we can each play a role in creating a culture of innovation at Central that will ensure the success of our great university!

CONCURRENT SESSIONS

Boost Your People IQ: How To Lead The Five Types of People

Presented by Dr. Sherene McHenry • Location: UC Auditorium

If you ever want to scream “Why don’t people just do their job?”, are facing burnout, or are in need of strategies for dealing with difficult people, you’ll want to learn the strategies for working with High Flyers, Steady Gliders, Lackers, Slackers and Hackers in this session.

A Mission of Engaging Learning: Supporting Connections that Matter

Presented by Dr. Jeremy Bond & Stephanie Bechtel • Location: UC Maroon

How do we keep attention on the critical connections between faculty and students? With its operational emphasis on Engaging Learning, the new Office of Curriculum and Instructional Support (CIS) is at the vanguard of aligning all facets of the development, design, and delivery of curriculum, teaching, learning, and demonstration to the university’s imperative of nurturing student success. Namely, what happens in the virtual or physical classroom is a foundational experience and a significant determinant upon which student success is based. Come learn how CIS is leading faculty in new and exciting ways to nurture an environment aimed at enhancing student success.

Understanding Generation Z and How They are Changing Higher Education

Presented by Dr. Sarah Marshall & Dr. Nikki Hacker

Location: UC Lake St. Clair / UC Lake Huron

Born between 1995-2015, Generation Z populates our college campuses. Generation Z characteristics, motivations, and learning styles differ greatly from the Millennial generation. To more effectively understand today’s college student, join us to learn about generational theory and the many facets of Generation Z. This lively and participatory session will also overview the implications of these characteristics on student-centered practice.

Why Internationalization at CMU?

Presented by Jennifer Evanuiik • Location: UC Lakeshore

This session will explore what campus internationalization really means and how it can benefit our students, faculty, staff, and university as a whole. Hear about specific ways that staff can be involved in our internationalization efforts, including engaging with and supporting international students, and participate in an open dialogue to address questions and generate ideas on this topic.
